Folly®

'Apalta Valley was where my dreams and instincts led, searching for the best terroir for red wines in Chile. My partners agreed and "La Finca de Apalta", a mountain Estate, was cleared as high as we could and Syrah – untested in this region – planted in the steeper slopes. Both were considered folly by the conventional wine trade. This wild wine, harvested by acrobats, is the result. Only the genius of Ralph Steadman could translate this emotional wine into a label, to him our gratitude.'
